INVITATION

International Women's Day 2010

Worldwide touring art exhibition will start in The Gambia

Time: Sunday, March, 7th, 2010, 3 p.m. (opening)

Place: "Mama Africa" - Batokunku (next after Tanji)

20 female artists from around the world will exhibit at "Mama Africa - Women's Museum & Art Centre". The opening will take place the day before the "International Women's Day 2010". The exhibition called "Freedom, Equality, Fraternity - For Humans" starts in The Gambia and will continue as a touring exhibition to other Women's Museums around the world: Kenya, Germany, Bolivia, and others. Four artists, participating in the exhibition, will even be present for the opening. The event is initiated by the International Artist Association in Germany (www.internationalerkuenstlerverein.de). Isha Fofana, the proprietor of "Mama Africa", is long time member of this recommended organisation. The exhibition is the first highlight set by the renowned Gambian artist after her grand opening mid of February. It is a symbol too set by the International Artist Association and the World Women's Museum Network to start the exhibition at their latest member - and of course in an African country. The exhibition will stay at "Mama Africa" till the end of the "Women's Week" in The Gambia.

It would be a pleasure for all artists - local and abroad, present or absent - to welcome you and your friends, colleagues and business partners at this special occasion at the new unique location of "Mama Africa". And it would be great too for the media to publish the event accordingly some days before. For further information just call: 7450730 (Isha Fofana) or 7333780 (Bernd Ax). Thank You!

Best wishes
Isha Fofana
